HEI Response for appropriate measures taken for proper treatment, disposal and recycling procedure

The major solid, liquid and e-waste generated in college are following:

- (i) Food waste from Mess/ Canteen
- (ii) Waste from toilet and washroom
- (iii) E-waste
- (iv) Waste water from chemistry lab
- (v) Routine waste from daily cleaning and sweep

Proper treatment, disposal and recycling procedure for food waste from Mess/ Canteen:

1. Segregation and Collection:

- Dedicated Bins: Establish separate bins for food waste, ensuring it's kept away from other waste types.
- Regular Collection: Implement a regular schedule for collecting food waste to prevent spoilage.

2. Pre-Processing:

- Sorting: Separate food waste into categories like vegetable scraps, fruit peels, and leftover food.

3. Composting:

- Food waste from mess are disposed to the farm yard chamber from where after conversion it to manure, it is used in garden and farms.

Food Waste Reduction: Implement strategies like portion control, accurate forecasting, and efficient storage to minimize food waste generation.

Proper treatment, disposal and recycling procedure for waste from toilet and washroom:

Waste from toilet and washroom are drained into sewage tank, from where with the help of bio-degradable enzymes it is treated and exhausted gases are released through exhaust pipe and water is drained to waste water chamber

Proper treatment, disposal and recycling procedure for e-waste:

For e-waste management, we have signed MoU with Hulladek recycling pvt. Ltd. We have installed e-waste collection bin and had collected 613.1kg of e-waste. This waste is handed over to Hulladek recycling pvt. Ltd and have received certificate of ecofriendly recycle.

Proper treatment, disposal and recycling procedure for Waste water from chemistry lab:

- Waste water from chemistry lab undergoes through pre-treatment chamber and then it is drained out.
- If the treated wastewater meets safety standards, it is disposed of via the regular sewer system
- If the water is not contaminated with harmful chemicals, it is reused for non-critical lab activities, such as cleaning or rinsing non-sensitive equipment, to reduce overall water consumption.
- Reduction in the use of hazardous chemicals and solvents to generate less contaminated wastewater.

Proper treatment, disposal and recycling procedure for routine waste from daily cleaning and sweep

- Sweepings and dust are usually discarded based on local waste regulations.
- Opt for reusable cleaning cloths instead of disposable wipes or paper towel
- Ensure that cleaning staff or individuals performing the cleaning understand waste segregation and recycling guidelines.
